Growing Wyboston Lakes Company Promises Secure Future for Keen Apprentices

Following their recent move to The Knowledge Centre at Wyboston Lakes, ACTON Security Ltd is looking for apprentices as part of their growth strategy to become one of the leading national companies in the security services market place.

Originally based in Letchworth, the company is fully accredited by the Security Systems and Alarms Inspection Board (SSAIB) and has grown dramatically, having experienced a four-fold increase in turnover during the last 5 years, and a 55% growth in the last year alone. The company provides Intruder alarms, CCTV, Access Control, Gate Automation and Barriers and Wired and Wireless Data Networks for both domestic and commercial customers.

ACTON Security Ltd are looking to grow their market share in Herts, Beds, Bucks and Cambs which is why they choose Wyboston Lakes as a central base so they can ensure a rapid response to all their customers throughout the region.

Director Mark Bosch commented, "We wanted to stay fairly local, but with our success both locally and nationally, we needed a prestigious base which would give us easy access to the major trunk routes. Wyboston Lakes is ideally placed and not only provides the high quality offices in impressive surroundings that we wanted, but flexibility so we can take additional space as the business grows. With all the services that are included, it offers excellent value, and we didn't even realise all the additional facilities that were on-site, like the gym, restaurants, training rooms and the golf course until we had actually moved in."

Mark added, "What we now need are dedicated and ambitious young apprentices who are keen to learn and can help us grow the business. Previous experience in security is not necessary, in fact we would prefer people without experience so that we can train them properly from the ground up. It's far more important that we find people who are willing and eager to learn and are committed to the company ethos in going that extra mile to ensure all our customers receive outstanding service"
