

Snow added finishing touch to latest Chartridge Wedding Fayre

Over 200 visitors and more than 25 exhibits ensured that the recent Wedding Fayre held at Chartridge was a resounding success with many of the visitors commenting that this was the busiest event they had experienced in the area. Even the slight flurry of snow didn't dampen anybody's enthusiasm, and in fact one of the brides-to-be was so impressed how the sprinkling of white added to the delightful location that she even considered a winter wedding!

Of course there were the expected displays for the usual wedding services, such as cars, cakes, flowers and photographers, but a harpist, a wedding singer and pyrotechnics gave this Wedding Fayre that individuality for which Chartridge has gained an enviable reputation.

The highlight of the day was the fashion show, which was very popular with all the brides-to-be and their mums. It wasn't just the superb range of dresses on show, but the professional presentation which underlined that attention to detail can make all the difference to that very special day.

With the Civil Ceremony and Wedding Breakfast Rooms set out specially for the day, it was an ideal opportunity for prospective brides to experience the atmosphere of a wedding at a stately home set in acres of beautiful landscaped gardens and imagine how their own wedding will look on the big day. This together with the friendly and helpful staff was reflected not only by the number of new bookings taken for weddings at Chartridge, but several brides-to-be who had reserved Chartridge have now confirmed their wedding booking and are looking forward to a memorable day.

The Chartridge wedding and events team, led by Lisa Booth, were on hand throughout the day to give every visitor the benefit of the wealth of experience and expertise they have gained managing a whole range of weddings from small intimate family celebrations to the grandest celebrations with hundreds of guests.

Lisa commented, "Every bride wants their wedding day to be memorable so we're here to give it that personal touch and make sure that everything goes according to plan. We know the day will go perfectly so the bride, groom and all the guests can really enjoy a day they will never forget."
